

Team Meeting

Ashok kumar
1601009

Apoorva
1601007

Sourabh singh
1601051

Mar 04

Brief:

- To achieve this objective, the component-level design should represent -the internal data structures and processing details of all the software components at an abstraction level, closer to the actual code.
- In addition, it should specify an interface that may be used to access the functionality of all the software components.